Dear Daniel Ellsberg:

We at the AFSC have been working on Indo-China Peace Education for quite a few years. We have often used your book Papers on the War as a program resource.

We now understand that you are taking a far more radical position in your criticism of the United States' handling of national and international matters. Have you written any recent position paper, stating your criticisms and supporting them with factual arguments?

If you've done anything like this, we would like to have a few copies, as many people respect your work and would listen. Also, could we have some brief biographical notes, in case you are ever speaking in the Dayton area?

In Peace,

Gail Dorsey
